Megan French

520 E. Buffalo St., Apt. 7 Ithaca, NY

mrf239@cornell.edu – (740) 602-1475

EDUCATION

Ph.D., Communication   August 2013 -

Cornell University, Ithaca, NY   present

Advisor: Dr. Jeff Hancock, Communication

Bachelor of Arts, Psychology with research distinction in Psychology   June 2012

Ohio State University, Columbus, OH

Advisor: Dr. Jennifer Crocker, Psychology

CONFERENCE PROCEEDINGS

French, M., Smith, M.E., Birnholtz, J., & Hancock, J. (2015). Is this how we (all) do it?: Butler lies and ambiguity through a broader lens. To appear in Proceedings of SIGCHI Conference on Human Factors in Social Computing. Seoul, KR.

Reynolds, L. Hancock, J.T., French, M., Birnholtz, J., & Smith, M. (2014). Detecting Deception in Text Messaging: The Role of Context, Relationships, the Lie and the Liar. Paper presented at the 64th Annual conference of the International Communication Association, Seattle, WA, May 22-26.

TEACHING

- Fall 2013 - Instructor for Communication 2010: Oral Communication
- Spring 2015 – Teaching Assistant for Communication 2310: Writing for Communication

FUNDING

- April 2014 - Co -PI for Institute for Social Science Small Grant entitled "Audience and Self-Concept in Social Media" ($9,000)