

THE DAILY JOURNAL

The San Mateo Daily Journal, an independent six-day a week newspaper based in San Mateo, California, is looking for editorial interns to do entry level reporting, research and data entry. We are also looking for photo interns. The Daily Journal is a traditional community newspaper covering most of San Mateo County. Newspaper experience is preferred but not necessarily required. We prefer candidates from the Bay Area. Access to a reliable form of transportation is required.

Please send a cover letter describing your interest in journalism, a resume and three recent clips or photos. Before you apply, you should familiarize yourself with our publication. Our website is smdailyjournal.com. Send your information via e-mail to Editor Jon Mays at jon@smdailyjournal.com.
