A monthly payment of $750 to $1,000 would allow thousands of homeless people to find infamous homes, from hotel rooms to boardings, to shared apartments or with family friends, according to a policy brief by four professors at the Los Angeles Academic. The positive results of pilot studies in several cities, including Los Angeles, the researchers say the income could provide a lifeline to the nearly 100,000 homeless people in the city. The study
